

LawCity.Com, the First Legal Community in Web 3.0, Issues NFTs to its Members Providing Them Unlimited Mental Health Services

The NFTs are LawCity.Com's contribution to fighting the mental health issues plaguing the legal industry

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (PRWEB) December 07, 2022 -- LawCity.Com, the first legal district, legal directory, and legal search engine in Web 3.0, today announced that it has gifted CryptoMories non-fungible tokens (NFTs) to its member firms that will provide holders and their families unlimited mental health services.

LawCity's decision to provide mental health-related NFTs to its members was inspired by the continued mental health struggles faced by lawyers and staff at large and small law firms alike, including the frequent news reports of deaths by suicide of lawyers across the U.S.

“Based on published research from the American Bar Association and various legal media outlets, it is clear the legal industry is facing a mental health crisis today,” said Richard Grungo, Jr., founder and CEO of LawCity.Com. “I have personally lost two of my mentors to mental health demons, and to this day my heart goes out to their families and former colleagues. LawCity.com is issuing these NFTs because, in keeping with LawCity.com's first core value, “Community First,” we must take care of our own.”

LawCity.Com will gift 11 CryptoMories NFTs and issue them to the stakeholders of its member tenants:

- Benesch Law
- Petrelli Previtera
- LinerLegal
- Ruane Attorneys
- Law Offices of Lee M. Perlman
- Nesevich Law
- Hafetz and Associates
- Charles Slamowitz
- McKenna Law
- Tittle & Perlmutter
- Grungo Colarulo

The mental health services will be provided by Impact Suite, which teamed up with CryptoMories earlier this year to provide mental health services to CryptoMories holders. Impact Suite provides a suite of comprehensive mental health and wellness apps that allow users to, among other things, schedule teletherapy appointments, message lifestyle coaches, track wellness metrics, and access mindfulness and meditation practices, all of which can be used anonymously.

“CryptoMories' mental health outreach and groundbreaking innovation in real-life utility, including free unlimited teletherapy from licensed therapists, came from our desire to elevate the entire industry,” said Bob “RxZen” Koyagi, the mental wellness outreach lead at CryptoMories. “Just as defi has impacted finance, gaining access to healthcare services through NFT token ownership could disrupt the insurance industry.”

“As mental health and addiction challenges continue to increase, it's more important than ever to be innovative when it comes to providing support,” said Clay Olsen, Founder and CEO of Impact Suite. “We are proud to be at the cutting edge of this new approach to accessing mental health services and we look forward to the future.”

“Boundless possibilities await legal pioneers in Web 3.0—through the metaverse, through NFTs, and through decentralization generally,” said Grungo. “The NFTs LawCity.Com is issuing to its members are the latest examples of how LawCity.Com and its members are setting the pace for the legal industry’s adoption of Web 3.0 technologies that can have a meaningful impact on lawyers and law firm staff members.”

“This is really what Web 3.0 is about,” added Lance Wyllie, Web 3.0 Strategist, and Head of Marketing & Growth for LawCity.com. “The opportunities blockchain technology and smart contracts create for traditional business and especially the legal industry is terribly exciting. CryptoMories’ partnership with Impact Suite highlights just how powerful and groundbreaking NFTs can and will be for entire industries. With the mental health benefits holding a Cryptomorie NFT provides, it was a no-brainer for us to distribute these to our member firms so they could experience the revolutionary technology of Web 3.0.”
